

NATIONAL COHESION AND INTERNATIONAL PEACE

The future of the nation will no longer be decided through the ballot box as this system is manifestly biased/corrupt and proving to be both inefficient and out of breath. France needs to be reborn, to transform itself in depth.

I am a social engineer and bearer of a reforming vision. I publicly claim, with good reason, the governance of France (but not as president because I am convinced of the need to change the political regime and the constitution). I claim it because I am the person most likely to bring true social justice, to save the country and to modify its relationship to the world; in short to bring national cohesion, where all the others bring the cleavage. I will bring international peace.

My societal program, developed since 2011, is international and applies to all countries of the world if they wish to join the French dynamic that will be initiated. I invite the French people to take a serious look at my profile, my programs and my geostrategic action plan, because you will hear, with great certainty, about me, despite the fact that the bribed French media very strongly conceal my existence.
